

Agility Awarded Contract for Disposal of DoD Unserviceable Equipment in Iraq, Kuwait and Afghanistan

Alexandria, VA, December 3, 2007 – Agility Defense & Government Services (Agility DGS) through its subsidiary Taos Industries, Inc. announces that it has been awarded by the Defense Logistics Agency a contract for the operation of six Defense Reutilization and Marketing Offices (DRMOs). This contract represents a new commercial approach to accomplishing property disposal for the Department of Defense. Agility will operate the world's largest DRMO at Camp Arifjan in Kuwait, four DRMO sites in Iraq and one in Afghanistan.

“This award represents a major turning point in Department of Defense property management. The Defense Logistics Agency and the Defense Reutilization and Marketing Service are charting a new course in Government and private sector partnering,” said Maj. Gen. Dan Mongeon, USA (Ret), President of Agility DGS-US. “This partnership will bring private sector innovation to the property disposal mission and will result in higher levels of operational efficiency.”

Agility DGS brings a unique set of capabilities to the DoD property disposal mission, including a proven track record for moving people and materiel safely in Iraq. Using the state-of-the-art demilitarization technology, Agility DGS will demilitarize and dispose of excess and unserviceable military property, with the exceptions of ordnance and HAZMAT, for US and Allied Forces.

“The DRMS award of this contract is a major milestone in DoD property management. Agility DGS will increase operational efficiency while increasing returns to the American tax payer,” Mongeon added.
